WHO ARE WE

We have different professional background such as medicine, epidemiology, social sciences and prevention and work in different areas of the German health system. Therefore the work of our section is based on expertise from different professions and disciplines.

WHY SEXUAL HEALTH

Prevention, diagnostics and treatment of STI constitute only some aspects of sexual health. Sexual health covers more areas, such as sexuality in different stages of life, sexual education, sexual satisfaction and sexual problems, reproductive health and sexual violence. The services offered in health care facilities in Germany are very heterogeneous. These heterogeneous structures impede a common understanding of sexual health, as most services are tailored to certain groups or to particular aspects of sexual health.

OUR GOALS

The Section Sexual Health wants to set up a basis for improved sexual health in Germany, by

- developing indicators to measure sexual health in Germany
- publishing professional standards of STI prevention
- working on recommendations for consultation, diagnosis and treatment on sexuality and STI. The results of this work should contribute to the improvement of sexual health on a scientific, political and practical level.
